LI YUAN HUNG MEETS DEMAND OF PROVINCES

New Chinese President Will Recall Parliament; Monarchy Leaders to Be Punished

(Special Cable to Liberty News)
SHANGHAI, June 9.—Li Yuan Hung, president of China, has announced his public policy which will be followed out during his term in office. He will first establish a new, responsible cabinet. Secondly, he announces that he will recall the old parliament, abolished by Yuan Shih-Kai.

After the recall of the parliament Li Yuan Hung will ask for a new election to choose a president. The parliament will also discuss the policies that will go into effect with the new regime. The president has announced that he will see that all notes of China and communicating banks are cashed.

Seven of the independent provinces have wired Li Yuan asking him to execute all of the monarchy plotters. If Li Yuan refuses to do this, the people will not trust the Peking government. There is a law in China which states that no person or persons shall advocate any other form of government, and the revolutionists are taking this law as a basis of their request.

After receiving the wire from the independent provinces, Li Yuan immediately requested Premier Dan Ku Su to call a special cabinet meeting in order to discuss the request. After several hours of conference, the cabinet agreed to meet the requests, and immediately wired all of the provinces to seize all those who advocated a monarchy. Leong Shi Yee, former secretary to Yuan Shih-Kai, has been arrested in Peking as a monarchy supporter.

General Chang Chun, who has been a supporter of the Manchu dynasty, has been asked by Kong Yu Wai, a leader of the Bo Wong Tong party, to wire General Chong Chock Lun, in Mukden, asking him to restore the Manchu leader.

Wilson's Foreign Policy Denounced in Whitman's Speech Naming Hughes—Senator Fall Waiting to Put Roosevelt's Name Before G. O. P. Clans—Bull Moose Adjourn to 3 o'Clock

(Associated Press Service by Federal Wireless)
COLISEUM, Chicago, June 9.—Col. Roosevelt's name, shouted to the Republican national convention this afternoon in the course of a speech by Senator A. B. Fall of New Mexico, precipitated an uproar. Fall took the floor after waiting until the "favorite sons" had been nominated. His reference to Roosevelt at once stirred up a din, and it appeared that the reference brought more applause from the galleries than from the floor. Shouts of "Hughes! Hughes!" began to rise and a demonstration ensued, with Chairman Harding endeavoring to restore order. Women in the galleries wildly waved bunting torn from the decorations. The police interrupted the demonstration to restore order.

Late this afternoon Congressman Woods of Indiana nominated Charles W. Fairbanks, Indiana's "favorite son," and Ex-Congressman Kendall of Iowa nominated Senator A. B. Cummins. The convention is still in session.

AUDITORIUM, Chicago, June 9.—A prohibition plank was urged for the Progressive platform this afternoon by Cooper of Kansas and a motion to table his suggestion was defeated, but later by a vote of 523 to 32 the plank was tabled. A suggestion for a civil service reform plank was turned down.

The convention this afternoon took a recess of 15 minutes, the leaders having evolved a program of frankly marking time during the taking of the first ballot in the Coliseum.

Previously a motion to give Porto Rico and the Philippines a voting delegate each was approved. Another motion to give Alaska, Hawaii, the Philippines and Porto Rico voting representation on the Bull Moose national committee was approved.

Tide of Roosevelt Sentiment Is Swelling Higher As Hours Go By

CHICAGO, Ill., June 9.—The Republican national convention early this afternoon is seething with excitement under the surface as names after name of "favorite sons" and others is placed in nomination. The tide of Roosevelt sentiment, swelling high in the Auditorium, where the Progressives gathered again today, is surging into the Republican hall.

Senator A. B. Fall of New Mexico is waiting his opportunity to present the name of Col. Roosevelt to the Republican convention. Hughes, Root, Barton, Weeks, Dupont and Sherman have been placed in nomination.

Among the outstanding events of the day were the reports of the joint conference committee, each side to its convention. The Progressives steadfastly put forward the name of Roosevelt, while the reports say that the Republicans did not unite in urging any one man as their choice, or name any candidate as their own.

Another significant development was the fact that Senator William E. Borah of Idaho left the Republican convention and entered the Progressive session at the auditorium, unheralded and unannounced, delivering an address which is taken by many as a possible step toward harmony.

Republicans Begin Nominating, With Hughes Off at Head of Long List

(Associated Press Service by Federal Wireless)
COLISEUM, Chicago, June 9.—Returning this morning from the joint conference of his committee with the special Progressive committee, Senator Smoot of Utah read to the Republican convention the report upon the conference and its endeavor to bring harmony between the two bodies.

"The conference was frank, free and friendly," the report read, and here he was stopped by cheers. "The committeemen believed that the good of the country depends upon the defeat of the Democratic party in the coming election. The Progressives urged with temperateness and fairness the opinion that Col. Roosevelt has such a personal following as to make him the most desirable candidate upon whom to unite. We agreed to report the facts to this convention."

Applause frequently interrupted the speaker. The crowds in the Republican convention hall were larger today than at any time since the opening session due to better weather and more interest. The scene was colorful today with the delegates wearing "favorite sons" carrying flags of the states, and when the hour came for the nominations to open, the great hall reverberated with the noise-making machines and the tumultuous cheering.

The first sun in four days added warmth to the proceedings and as the session went along, the crowds of spectators became so huge that every available space was filled and soon over-taxed. Then the fire inspectors, fearing the consequences of any excitement, ordered that no more be admitted to the hall.

NOMINATIONS BRING UP "FAVORITE SONS." At the first call for nominations Alabama, at the head of the alphabetical list, did not respond, and Arizona, then called on, yielded to New York. This brought to the platform the eloquent Governor, Charles S. Whitman of the Empire state, avowed sponsor for Justice Hughes.

He began with a denunciation of President Wilson's foreign policy and made the declaration that the present prosperity is largely dependent upon the war, asserting that had it not been for the "war prosperity" the evil effects of the Democratic tariff would have made the country suffer. In the course of his speech Whitman mentioned Taft and this brought from the convention cheers which lasted six minutes.

At this point the Republican peace conference committee reported, interrupting in accordance with "unofficial instructions."

Then Whitman continued. He concluded by saying: "New York offers to the people's party, to the voters' party—no, not only to them, but to the great nation—her son, her noblest and best. I nominate Charles E. Hughes!"

The nomination was the signal for a great uproar. Bands blared out in wild music, flags were waved, the thunder of feet was uproarious and the Hughes delegates cheered loudly. The demonstration lasted for 20 minutes.

Chairman Harding pounded the table with his gavel, but each thump was greeted with renewed cheering. The police were then directed to get the delegates seated.
